

Product Description

The unique design and functionality of the Royal Triple Station Fit Rider helps people to get fit in a fun way that does not involve high-impact movements. The machine couldn't be easier to use as all that's required is to pull the user's weight up and down in shallow movements as gentle or as vigorous as required. Using the Royal Triple Station Fit Rider also gives the heart a good workout too. The simplicity of the machine means that it is highly accessible both for students new to exercising outdoors and beginners just starting their fitness journey. The moving parts are concealed so there's no worry about trapping fingers in the mechanisms. When placed outdoors there's no need to worry about the metal wearing out as it's constructed with a strong weather-resistant coating to protect it during rain, snow and hot sun. As three people can use it at the same time it's the perfect piece of equipment to place in high traffic areas near a school, fitness or wellness center or simply in the public park to give access to anyone wishing to improve their fitness levels.
