

Product Description

Designed to be used by three people at the same time, the Royal Triple Station Pendulum Swing allows users to build up their muscle tone slowly with controlled side to side motions. No other kind of gym equipment can replicate the way the pendulum swing moves and it's not usually seen in commercial gyms. That's why gym-goers and the general public will appreciate this Royal Triple Station Pendulum Swing being available in the local area for daily use. It will quickly become part of the daily routine of runners, high school teenagers and athletes when placed in a public easy-to-access location as it delivers low-intensity movements that help to engage the key core muscles and keep hips flexible. Rather than doing sit ups or other abdominal workouts, this station brings diversity to fitness regimes and helps with balance and body coordination. It is a safe piece of equipment to use even for the elderly thanks to the padded handles and textured footpad to prevent slipping.
