Product Description

The Triple Uneven Agility Bars is a fitness playground equipment built for kids of all ages and sizes. It has three sturdy bars with gradually increasing heights. This design encourages kids to start from the lowest bar and go for the higher bars as they grow stronger and taller. The bars are truly universal in terms of different skill levels it can entertain. Both little ones just learning to jump and bigger kids aiming to swing from bar to bar have a place here. The Triple Uneven Agility Bars might look like play equipment, but they're loaded with physical benefits. Kids will be working on their grip strength, upper body muscles, flexibility, and coordination all at once while using the bars. All these strengths and skills will prepare kids for all sorts of physical challenges in other walks of life as well. In terms of quality, the bars are built to endure years of heavy use. It can withstand both daily rough play and changing weather without decaying in shape and appearance.
