

Product Description

With two sides of the equipment separated by a handy information board, the Royal Double Station Lat Pulldown is perfect for use by couples or friends who want to add a social element to their workout. Back to back they can build those back and shoulder muscles in a way that boosts their posture and technique, balancing and toning muscle groups with simple repetitive exercises. The equipment functions by using the weight of the person to complete the lat pulldown so it's perfectly adjusted for those just starting out or gym buddies who want to enjoy the outdoor environment instead of the confines of a gym. The Royal Double Station Lat Pulldown is the perfect addition to an outdoor gym as it endures the winter weather thanks to a tough powder coating and presents a unique opportunity to build muscle in pleasant settings whether used in a high school playground or a park with public access.
