

Product Description

Adding the Royal Double Station Dip to other outdoor gym equipment provides the potential for an all-round workout instead of just focusing on heavy exercises to build muscle. This equipment brings strength to the upper body including arms and shoulder as well as the back with simple, repetitive dipping exercises. Users who are new to this equipment will be able to quickly learn how to get the most out of it thanks to the information board placed between the two dipping handles. Ideal for use by two people at the same time, whether it's a couple working out together or friends looking to encourage each other's fitness journey, the dual aspect of the Royal Double Station Dip will be popular when placed in the grounds of a high school or public park. Having such equipment freely available promotes a healthy and active lifestyle for everyone from teenagers and young adults to the elderly looking to stay in shape. The dip bars can be used in a variety of ways depending on which areas of the body you're looking to tone up.
