

Product Description

The Double Station Sky Walker is a perfect way to improve joint flexibility as well as working muscle groups in the stomach and legs. When you add this piece of outdoor gym equipment to a communal space it gives people of all ages the incentive to get healthy and enjoy a low-intensity workout whenever they feel like it. If installed in a local park you can rest assured the residents will make this part of their fitness regime, and schools too can promote positive fitness choices with this equipment readily available any time of the day. Working out as an individual can be more of a strain than when you're with a partner, so the dual aspect of the Double Station Sky Walker ensures room for two people to work out together. Time flies when you get lost in conversation and users will be able to get more benefit from the set whether they're elderly and need to maintain flexibility, a teenager incorporating it as part of a workout regime or a seasoned gym goer.
