

Product Description

Whether it's fifteen minutes of fast walking to burn calories or a quick few minutes to get users prepared for a longer walk or run, the Single Station Sky Walker is the perfect piece of outdoor gym equipment. It can be used by people of all ages from young teenagers to elderly users who are still active and love the opportunity to improve their flexibility in old age. The locations this gym equipment can be placed are endless. Schools and colleges can add them to a location on the campus where there is a lot of foot traffic to encourage fitness and public parks can use them to offer a wider range of fitness options to local residents. What's ideal about this equipment is that it's very easy to use. The user just steps on the footholds which have grips inside to prevent slipping, holds onto the bars and moves as if they were walking through the air. This workout hits multiple muscle groups and loosens up the body ready for more strenuous activity.
