

Product Description

The Downtown Bench with Back prioritizes comfort like no other. The steel straps have gentle curves in the hip position and the edge under the knee that contour to the user's body. Not to mention, the armrests on both sides take comfort up a notch too. This considerate design is why the Downtown Bench with Back is particularly beneficial for the elderly or physically disabled to relax for extended periods. After comfort, durability is the bench's second priority. The spaces between the metal slats are deliberately given to drain off rainwater automatically and keep the seat dry and ready for use even after a downpour. This means water won't accumulate on the surface, and the bench will remain rust-free for years to come. The bench comes in 4-foot and 6-foot lengths to suit the needs of different environments. You can also paint the bench in the color of your choice thanks to the Standard and Extreme finish options.
