Product Description

If you need to seat a crowd but without crowding your space, the Perforated Steel Double Pedestal Bench is your MVP. Its high-capacity design gives you two benches in one compact unit. Both the benches share the same set of rock-solid support posts which you can say is the secret to its space-saving design. These sturdy posts, made from top-tier commercial-grade materials, can handle a full house without flinching. And the high seating capacity isn't at the expense of comfort. There's generous space between the two benches to ensure no one's invading anyone else's personal space. Its strength in supporting heavy loads also comes from how it's mounted on the ground. The posts can sit on the surface with strong bolts drilled into the ground, or they can go deep inside the ground. Durability-wise, It's built to endure whatever the weather throws its way, from blazing heat to pouring rain. Part of this is because of the quality of the metal, and part is due to the weather-resistant paint job.
