

Perforated Steel Austin Bench with Arms

$1,466.<sup>00</sup>

Product Description

The Perforated Steel Austin Bench with Arms isn't just another mundane bench. It's designed to turn heads and offer a comfy spot to sit, all while handling whatever the great outdoors throws at it. The seat has an evenly spread-out polka-dot pattern and curves from the right places to contour the body for ultimate comfort. Thanks to those evenly spaced holes on the bench, water doesn't pool up and leave you with a soggy seat either. The bench's rounded edges and arms also add to the comfort and aesthetics. There's also a slight Victorian detailing between the front and back legs to make it more inviting. What makes the Perforated Steel Austin Bench with Arms durable is the cast iron frame and the high-quality steel used for the seat and backrest. You also have alternate installation options to fit your setup. You can go with the surface mount option that bolts the legs securely to hard surfaces or choose the portable mount to move the bench around wherever needed.
